

Santa Fe Independent School District
National Parental Involvement Day

WHEREAS, Santa Fe ISD agrees that parent engagement focused on supporting the learning process, both at school and at home, is critical to increasing overall student achievement; and

WHEREAS, over thirty years of research indicates that when parents and caregivers are strategically involved in children's learning at school and at home, student achievement significantly improves, and schools are more effective; and

WHEREAS, Santa Fe ISD will recognize National Parental Involvement Day, to honor the powerful contributions that parents and caregivers make to support the success of students and to reinforce awareness of the invaluable role that parents and caregivers play in supporting student learning and public education, and honor their contributions to student success; and

WHEREAS, in addition to recognizing the role parents and caregivers play as invaluable allies in student success, secondary goals of this event include identifying parent and community volunteers whose efforts will help schools increase parent engagement, building strong partnerships with parent and community linked to student learning, laying the foundation for strategic family engagement, and strengthening the partnership between schools.

THEREFORE, Santa Fe ISD Board of Trustees does hereby recognize and proclaim November 17, 2022, as National Parental Involvement Day.

Passed and approved this 17th day of October 2022.

J.R. "Rusty" Norman, President

Eric Davenport, Vice President
Patrick Kelly
Matt Crable

James Grassmuck, Secretary
Clay Hertenberger
Angie Lambert

Dr. Kevin Bott, Superintendent